

Creggenan Lakes

The narrow road to Creggenan is just outside Arthog on the Dolgellau side of the A493. Driving away from Dolgellau turn left on the hill down into Arthog. From the Tywyn direction the turn is tricky as you will need to go over to the left side of the road to get enough of a turning circle. Make sure any car behind can see what you are doing.

Follow the narrow road, shown orange, to the car park by the lakes. There are a number of gates and steep hairpins. Notice passing places in case you meet something and need to reverse.

There is a car park with toilets by the lake. Creggenan is one of the most beautiful places in the area. You could also take in the Creggenan climb up the hill to the left.

When you are ready, continue on the orange route. After a T junction you will pass under the cliffs of Tyrrau Mawr towering above you. As the road gets nearer to Dolgellau you will, on a fine day get great views of Cader to the right. For refreshments stop at the Gwernan Lake Hotel, which welcomes children, and has a good view over the lake.

Continue down to Dolgellau and from there take whatever route takes you home.

Creggenan lake with Tyrrau Mawr in the background.

The onward route.

Cader from the road near Gwernan Lake.

Diffwys and more hills on the Rhinog range seen from near Dolgellau.